The IUPUI Learning Communities (LC) experience is a semester long cluster of courses linked together for beginning students. The programs are designed to help beginning students make a successful transition to college and set them up for future success in classes, allowing students to build close friendships with peers and make connections with faculty.

In both Themed and Gateway Learning Communities, students co-enroll in two or more courses and explore a central theme with experiences in and out of the classroom, forming connections between classwork and their life experiences. Structurally the models are different, in Themed Learning Communities the course instructors work collaboratively to intentionally connect the content of their courses through assignments and activities, and meet as a team with the students. In Gateway Learning Communities the First-Year Seminar instructor works to integrate learning connected to the theme into the FYS course while involvement from the linked course instructor(s) is not required.

The questionnaire was designed to enhance understanding of students’ perceptions of their Learning Community experience (e.g., if the courses improved the students’ ability to form connections, apply knowledge across courses, and if instructional team members were committed to promoting an environment that respects and celebrates diversity). The questionnaire also allowed students to respond to open-ended questions on the aspects they liked the most and least about their LC experience, and why they chose their Learning Community.

Results suggest that the Themed Learning Community experience helped students work well with diverse others, explore topics directly related to their TLC theme, and made it easier for them to make friends. The Gateway Learning Community experience helped students form lasting friendships, work well with diverse others, and work collaboratively with other students.

Results suggested that the TLC experience contributed to integrative thinking and engagement (97% of students reported completing a graded assignment that required integrating ideas, strategies, or skills; 79% reported participating in a campus activity as part of their TLC) and similar, but slightly lower, amounts for the GLC experience (95% of students reported completing a graded assignment that required integrating ideas, strategies, or skills; 72% reported participating in a campus activity as part of their GLC). Also, seven in ten respondents indicated they are significantly likely to return to IUPUI for the next academic year for both Learning Communities.

TLC and GLC Significant Differences

- Overall, TLC respondents were more satisfied/very satisfied with their experience than GLC respondents by 11%.
- For all significant differences, TLC was significantly higher than GLC results.
- With TLC having a theme, they explored topics directly related to the theme more often and applied what they learned in one course to another LC course.
- TLC students reported considering problems and issues from multiple perspectives, applying knowledge to broader community or social issues, and actively discussing complex issues and ideas more than GLC students.
TLC Key Highlights

- 81% of respondents indicated that their TLC helped them work well with others who differ from them (with regard to religious beliefs, gender, ethnicity, cultural background, race, etc…) either much or very much.
- During their TLC, 84% of students reported they often or very often explored topics directly related to the theme of their TLC.
- 79% reported they often or very often actively discussed complex issues and ideas.
- The number one aspect respondents liked was having classes with the same people (38% of comments).
- Nearly a quarter of respondents selected a Themed Learning Community based on the content (28%).
- Almost 40% of comments suggested that respondents least liked aspect of their TLC experience was related to the assignments.

Themed Learning Community Student Survey Responses

- Eighty-one percent of respondents indicated much/very much that their TLC helped them work well with others who differ from them (with regard to religious beliefs, gender, ethnicity, cultural background, race, etc…).
- Almost three-fourths (74%) of students felt they applied much/very much of what they learned in one course to another course in their learning community.
